Did you know you can have access to some of your favorite resources from your digital device? Browse Himmelfarb's App Shelf for the list of available mobile apps you can download to your smart phone or iPad. The App Shelf is divided into two sections;

- I. Information Apps: Many of your favorite databases like PsychiatryOnline are available as apps or you can try our list of databases like PubMed for Handhelds that are optimized for mobile devices allowing your smartphone and tablet to be automatically detected.
- II. Productivity Apps: Are you searching for an app to help you organize your research or annotate a journal article? Discover how apps like Browzine, Dragon Dictation and Evernote can help take notes, or search for articles and keep your research organized!

Mobile Apps

Epocrates Essentials

Evidence-based resource providing disease and drug information, covering prevention, diagnosis, treatment and prognosis.

FirstConsult Mobile

Evidence-based clinical information draws heavily on the National Guideline Clearinghouse, Cochrane systematic reviews, and BMJ Clinical Evidence as information sources.

TIP OF THE MONTH

PICO Search Made Easy

If you are searching for an easy interface to help you conduct a PICO search try the Trip database or PubMed Mobile App. Both databases have features that allow you to search using Population, Intervention, Comparison and Outcome to help you conduct a focused search. A great resource to share with your students!
