SURVEY OF LIBRARY USE POSITIVE

In mid-November, the Office of Education conducted a survey of representative user groups in the Medical Center in an attempt to identify strengths and deficiencies in three service components: Audiovisual Education and Services, Computer Assisted Education and Services, and the Himmelfarb Health Sciences Library. The objective of the survey was to collect information on any aspect of the operations of these units that might detract from their usefulness. The results are being evaluated by the directors of these services and by the Faculty Committee on Communication and Educational Resources, chaired by Dr. Richard Snell. The survey strategy was to approach leaders of consumer groups asking them to speak on behalf of their groups as they have experienced the services. A total of 82 questionnaires were sent out to department chairpersons, division chairpersons, program directors, chief residents and presidents of the medical school classes. Twenty-two questionnaires were returned. Although not all consumer groups were represented, the returns identified special strengths and weaknesses as perceived by those sufficiently interested in the issues to respond.

+++ Services +++ Staff +++

Constituent groups were asked to evaluate the services and staff associated with them in nine different areas: MEDLINE, general reference, instruction in use of resources, interlibrary loan, reserve, and circulation. A positive picture emerged. There was unusually strong consumer satisfaction with MEDLINE and online services. Fourteen of sixteen raters described the staff as "extremely helpful." Generally the staff are seen as cooperative, pleasant and eager to help. In one area only, the Reserve Collection Service, were staff critically evaluated by more than one respondent.

+++ Products +++ Services +++

In most cases the products were rated by 50% or more of the raters as "extremely satisfied." Criticisms of products occurred in two areas: the circulation system in locating books and journals and in the photocopy machine performance. (Cont., pg. 2)

LIBRARY HOURS

+++ Number and titles of books and journals +++

There were a significant number of complaints about the number of books and titles of both books and journals.

+++ Interface +++

Response to the Library newsletter was restrained, with only 3 ratings out of the 22 returns.

In written comments, a variety of complaints were registered. Some users regret that the Library is not in the hospital; others comment on the thinness of staff. In general the picture is positive.

There are definite and specific improvements needed in the Library's operations that can and will be made. Progress may be slowed by limited funding. Library users are invited to discuss their concerns with the Library Director at anytime.

RECENT MEDLINE TOPICS

This is a list of selected MEDLINE topics. These searches can be repeated, modified, or expanded. This list does not include all MEDLINE searches from the past month but is indicative of the variety of topics successfully run on MEDLINE. Request forms are available from the Reference Desk or topics may be phoned to Mrs. Schulman (9:30 am - 6:00 pm Monday-Thursday, until 5:00 Friday, at 676-2963).

TOXICOLOGY INFORMATION SERVICES

Are you involved in evaluating new drugs for adverse effects? Do you need to know about environmental mutagens or carcinogens? Do you want information about new methods of chemical analysis?

Through TOXLINE, a computer-based information service produced by the National Library of Medicine, the Himmelfarb Library provides answers to these and other questions. The solution to your information problem can be ready in a few minutes, saving you many hours spent reviewing printed indexes.

This service is free to faculty, staff, and students in the Medical Center. Request forms are available at the Reference Desk. If your request is received between 9:30 am and 5:00 pm Monday-Friday, you will have your answer in the form of a bibliography in your hands the same day. If your request is left at night or on weekends, it will be ready the next working day.

Using combinations of keywords, authors names, and chemical formulas, the librarian prepares a TOXLINE bibliography. With unique chemical identifiers such as the molecular formula or the Chemical Abstracts Registry Number, these literature searches can be limited to specific substances or groups of substances. The search can be expanded to include any substance having a particular effect or used for a particular purpose. A request might be for information about mutagenic effects of DDT, drugs known to cause uterine neoplasms, or interactions between oral contraceptives and tranquilizers.

These references are drawn from various sources, including two unavailable in print. Two of the printed indexes are available at the Himmelfarb: International Pharmaceutical Abstracts (American Society of Hospital Pharmacists) and Toxicity Bibliography (National Library of Medicine). These are shelved in the Reference Section on the first floor. Other printed sources include: Abstracts on Health Effects of Pesticides (BioSciences Information Service), Chemical-Biological Activities (Chemical Abstracts Service) and Pesticides Abstracts (Environmental Protection Agency).

The TOXLINE sources which are unavailable in a printed form are the Environmental Mutagen Information File (Oak Ridge National Laboratory), Hayes File on Pesticides, and the Toxic Materials Information Center File (Oak Ridge National Laboratory). TOXLINE references are drawn from primary journals published from 1971 through the present. Earlier references are available from TOXBACK, the archival database.

Once prepared, a TOXLINE bibliography can be updated on a continuing basis. This current awareness service produces a list of new references added each month to the database. These new lists supplement the original search and keep the requester current.

MEDLINE, the comprehensive biomedical database, supplements TOXLINE and both can be used to create a more comprehensive bibliography. The TOXLINE search includes adverse effects of the chemical agent while the MEDLINE search includes therapeutic or diagnostic effect. If you have a toxicology or pharmacology problem, TOXLINE and MEDLINE may provide the answer. Mr. Jensen or Mrs. Schulman will be happy to help get that answer.

NEW EDITIONS

... RECENT RESULTS IN CANCER RESEARCH, 2d ed. of Vol. 13, Tumors in Children, has arrived... The 8th ed. of Harrisons Principles of Internal Medicine has also arrived and is in process.

CAI Games

The Office of Computer Assisted Education and Services has made available a variety of computer games. Six games are currently accessible and new games are in the offing.

There is a Las Vegas style Blackjack game in which you can play against the house (the computer). The Startrek game is a one-on-one battle between the Federation Starship Enterprise and a Klingon battle cruiser. Phasers, photon torpedoes, attack, flight, surrender and self-destruction are all possible in this fight to death.

Master is a game in which the player is a feudal lord who must decide, based on given guidelines, the parameters which will yield the best results in terms of food supply for the subjects and workload per peasant. The player must decide whether to buy or sell acreage and how many acres to plant. Plagues, pestilence and revolt are possible as well as prosperity and bumper crops.

Jeff Wetstone, a Sophomore medical student, has designed and programmed a new game, Galaxy, which will become available within the next month. This game involves a galactic empire in which each player controls his own empire, builds spaceships to explore and conquer new solar systems and battles rival empires for dominance of the galaxy. The Office of Computer Assisted Education and Services welcomes the participation of all interested users in the development of new games or other programs for its computer system.

The games are intended to provide a means of recreation for people in the Medical Center. It is anticipated that the games will also encourage the use of CAI facilities, acquaint users with the interactive capabilities of CAI, and increase awareness of the many other CAI programs available to them.

The games programs may be accessed through the CRT terminals in the Library's AV Study Center. Instruction sheets explaining "log-in" procedures are provided by the AV Study Center and library staff are available to assist users with the terminals and programs.

Notes from AV....

For students taking the Clinical Assessment course the following series might be of interest for the section on the Core History:

The Medical Interview	13 min.
The Surgical Interview	13 min.
The Psychiatric Interview	12 min.

YEARBOOK SERIES CANCELLED

Due to the low level of use that the Yearbook series has received in recent years, the Library Staff has decided to discontinue purchase of this series as of December 1976. We feel that this decision will not compromise the integrity of the serials collection and will free scarce funds for subscriptions to new primary journals. The discontinued titles are listed below. Faculty and staff comments on this action are invited and should be addressed to the Director, Himmelfarb Library.

STAFF ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Matheson, Director of the Library, attended a meeting of the Commission on Higher Education, Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Philadelphia, January 12. She will serve as an evaluator on an accreditation team in March. The DOCHSIN (District of Columbia Health Sciences Information Network) elected Mrs. Matheson to a 2 year term as President. The group plans to implement consortium sharing activities in the near future.

Staff from the United States Information Agency observed a MEDLINE demonstration and discussed on-line reference service with Mrs. Schulman. They wanted to gain first-hand information about the advantages of computer-based information sources.

Several members of the Reference Staff recently attended sessions on "Patient Education" and "Continuing Education for Medical Librarians," given at a Quad-state Hospital Association Meeting held at the Washington Hilton. Staff have also attended Medical Library Association courses on "The Management of Reference Services" and "Teaching Skills for Library Educators" given at the National Library of Medicine.

Regional activities have included: participation by Mr. Jensen in a By-Laws Revision Committee meeting of the Regional Medical Library IV held in December...attendance by three Reference Staff members at a meeting of Hospital Librarians, Hospital Council of the National Capital Area, Inc., held in Washington... and a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Regional Medical Library IV held at Georgetown University attended by Mr. Jensen and Mrs. Matheson.

The acquisitions list is organized according to the MeSH Tree Structures, which bring related subjects together and divide broad general terms into narrower, more specific terms. The broad MeSH categories under which books appear this month are:

- A - Anatomical Terms
- B - Organisms
- C - Diseases
- D - Chemicals and Drugs
- E - Analytical, Diagnostic and Therapeutic Technics and Equipment
- F - Psychiatry and Psychology
- G - Biological Sciences
- H - Physical Sciences
- I - Social Sciences
- K - Humanities - Art, History, Philosophy, and Religion
- L - Information Sciences - Communication Technics and Services
- N - Health Care

A complete listing of the categories and sub-categories appears in Medical Subject Headings - Tree Structures, 1977, pp. iii-v (in Reference).

Library Loan Periods:

- Books & Series - 2 weeks, renewable
- Non-Print Materials - 1 week, renewable
- Journals - 3 days, not renewable
- Limited Loan Items - 3 days, not renewable
- Reserve Materials - 2 hours and/or overnight, renewable.

Materials for overnight use are checked out within 2 hours of Library closing and returned within 2 hours of opening next day.

For full circulation loan policy, pick up a brochure at the Circulation Desk, or call 676-2961/62.
