BOOK REVIEW

The University Hospital in the Academic Health Center: Finding the Rigid Relationship

Fred C. Munson and Thomas A. D'Aunno

University hospital autonomy is the subject of this report of a study sponsored by the Association of Academic Health Centers and the Association of American Medical Colleges. Four major objectives are examined in determining the advantages and disadvantages of separating university-owned hospitals from their parent institutions. The first is to measure the current extent of autonomy in university hospitals. The second objective addresses the central question identifying the factors that lead to separation of the hospital or that make separation impossible. The third objective examines the fundamentals of implementing autonomy. The final objective is to examine future trends in the relationship between university hospitals and their parent institutions.

The report looks at these questions from multiple perspectives, explaining general principles as well as presenting case studies of specific institutions. Also included is a summary of questions for those academic health centers considering a change in the organizational structure of their university hospital. The report along with a summary volume can be found under the call number RA975.U5M9 1987.

miniMEDLINE -- A SUCCESS STORY!

In mid-July, the Library introduced the Medical Center to the miniMEDLINE System, a computer program designed to allow faculty, staff, and students to search a portion of the MEDLINE database themselves. During its first three months, nearly 380 individuals have spent over 580 hours searching the miniMEDLINE System. By completing over 6,500 searches, these individuals have given the miniMEDLINE System both a strong endorsement and a successful start. All Medical Center faculty, staff, and students are invited to search the miniMEDLINE System by sitting down at the terminals next to the Library's Reference Desk. Reference librarians are available from 8:30 AM until 5:00 PM weekdays to assist searchers with the system. Informal demonstrations of miniMEDLINE continue until December 12, 1987, every Tuesday from 4:00 to 4:30 PM and every Friday from 12:30 to 1:00 PM at the Reference Desk. Individuals and departments may schedule training sessions at other times by calling Anne Linton, Online Coordinator, at ext. 4-8478.

The Information Interface is published 6 times a year by the Himmelfarb Health Sciences Library, George Washington University Medical Center, 2300 Eye Street N.W., Washington, DC 20037. Editor: Barbara Collins; Assistant Editor: Patrice Hardeman; Faculty Publications Editor: Anne Linton; contributions to this issue: Library Staff.
